A GREAT RAILROAD SCHEME.

Pittsburg and Charleston to be United.

The Christianburg, Va., Messenger pub- Cannaday, lishes two letters-one from Senator Johnson, of Virginia, and the other from the Hon. J. B. Donley, of Pennsylvania, accompanied by an excellent editorial-in reference to the proposed project of building a railroad from Pittsburg-Pa., to Charleston, S. C., passing through the great mineral region in Montgomery County, Va., by way of Charlotte, N. C. We extract the following comments from the Messenger :

lowing comments from the Messenger:

This enterprise is being energetically pushed by the people of Pittsburg and the Monongahela Valley, and we have not the least doubt but that it will be a success, and the road built in a very few years. Pittsburg is conspicuous for its wealth, and has the means to complete the enterprise independent of any outside help. As a great manufacturing city, she needs a southern outlet for the products of her manufactories to enable her to compete successfully with the citles of the East for the trade of the States of the South in implements and machinery. Her business men have become fully aware of the importance of this direct means of communication, and have determined to have it at any cost. Since the slaves have been freed and the industry and enterprise of the South has been turned to manufacturing, the demand for improved agricultural implements and every description of machinery has increased, and will continue to increase, to an enormous extent. Nearly the whole business contiel of that city is engaged in the production implements and every description of machinery has increased, and will continue to increase, to an enormous extent. Nearly the whole business capital of that city, is engaged in the production of these articles, and by building this road she becomes at once the chief source of supply for the five States through which it will pass, and will be placed on a footing to compete with her rivals for the trade of the entire South. Besides this demand for an outlet for her articles of manufacture when ready for market, Pittsburg is rapidly exhausting the supply of raw material in her vicinity, and will soon be in need of increased facilities for drawing them from new fields. The exhaustless anality and great variety of minerals, and the abundance of excellent timber of West Virginia, polar shees sections out as the flehis from which our fature supply of raw material is to be drawn. We may therefore safely predict that, despite the apparent insurmountable obstacles presented in jofty mountains, this road will be built. There are no difficulties that money and the engineering skill of the nineteenth century cannot overcome.

We have lately called attention to another scheme, which proposed to locate this Pittsburg road via the White Sulphur, Covington and

ALL ABOUT THE STATE.

The Sparianoung Sparian says. It is a from all sections of our county report that the farmers are unusually energetic in preparing for the coming crop. Notwithstanding there has been a great deal of rain, and planting has been somewhat delayed, yet the ground is belig put in better condition—better implements are being used—fencing is more substantial, and more manure is being used than has been known in this section for many years."

The Sumter News has the following: "On last Saturday night the weather suddenly changed very coel, and Sunday was a blustering day, alternating between sunshine, clouds, rain, high winds, and in some parts of the county, hall also. We learn that on Monday morning there was ice in this vicinity; but have not heard that anything has been actually killed, although fruit and vegetation must be more or less injured."

FAT INFECTION IN THE AIR .- EX-PERIMENTAL chemists have repeatedly anaalyzed the air at unhealthy seasons in the hope of detecting the invisible virus which produces epi demic disease. They have not yet discovered it, and scarcely any two of them agree as to its nature. This is of little consequence. It is sufficient to know that this poisonous principle exists, and that a safeguard against its insidious induence has been provided. In the spring and early and other periodical diseases of that class are prevalent, it is only necessary to fortify the sys tem with a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters to escape them. If the precaution has been neglected, which it never ought to be in any district liable to such visitations, and if the paroxysms of malarious fever have actually commenced, they may always be checked and broken up by s course of that powerful vegetable tonic and alterative. Quinine was once considered the only speciatt, Wm. L. Bradley, Directors of "The Marine | fic for chills and fevers; but it is now generally admitted that this nauseous atkaloid is a danger ous medicine, and that its secondary effects are more to be dreaded than any form of intermittent fever. It is simply a tremendous astringent It does not touch the disordered liver, or regulate the bowels, or in any way improve the condition of the animal fluids. Hostetter's Bitters, on the other hand, in addition to being a better and safer tonic than any preparation of quinine, has a balsamic effect upon the whole system. It is aperient and anti-billous, as well as directly invigorating, and purifies the secretions as well as regulates the secretive organs. It stimulates the appetite, strengthens the stomach, soothes the nerves, promotes healthful perspiration, and induces quiet sleep. As a stomachic it has no rival. THE M'FARLAND TRIAL. Free-Love Marriage-Judge Hackett Bars the Door-Three Tribune Men on the Stand-Intimacy of Richardson

Farland trial was greater than on any previous day, notwithstanding the unpropitious weather. It being supposed that the Astor House ceremony would be gone into, the ladies and clergymen were out in unusual force. The clergymen sought and obtained the greatest possible contiguity to the ladies, and the mingling of black coats and white chokers with many-colored ribbons and gay plumes helped to give sobriety to the scene. The testimony, however, generally disappointed the curious. The witnesses for the defence are many, but they have nothing particularly new or till the third day after the separation. When McFarland received the intercepted letter from McFarland received the intercepted letter from McFarland received the intercepted letter from McInardson he rushed frantically into the room, put his hands on her shoulder, and screamed, "Would you believe it?" His grief was excessive; so much so, that he appeared irrational at times.

Patrick O'Ronrke and Donald Nicholson, Tribune attaches, also testified—the latter to taking care of some memoranda belonging to Richardson, after he was shot, also to certain things which Richardson dictated to him. To this latter line of remark the District Attorney objected, but Mr. Graham insisted that it was within the ruling of the court.

Mr. Graham insisted that it was within the ruling of the court.

Mr. Graham contended that the defence had a right to show that Richardson's death was hurried; they intended to show that as soon as he was shot they commenced to intrigue for his property, and that in this and other ways they produced a mental excitement which hastened his death. In other words, they would show that Richardson had been pushed to his death.

The court, however, decided to exclude all questions relating to the memoranda. The other witnesses examined were Thomas W. Knox, J. F. Le Baron, Whitelaw Reed, Spencer Kirty, and Mrs. Mary Mason, of No. 72 Amity street. This lady kept the boarding house where Richardson and Mrs. McFarland staid. Her evidence went to show that the two were very intimate.

Work has been began in "umter upon the foun-dation of a new brick hotel and stores in connec-tion, on the lot immediately adjoining the Plant-ers' Warehouse and fronting the courthouse. The building will be three stories high, have a front of seventy feet width, and depth of eighty feet.
